EVENT DESCRIPTION:

The Nimra College of Engineering and Technology (NCET) celebrated the National Science Day (NSD) on 28-02-2026. The day focused on a special awareness guest lecture on "Quantum Computing in the Current Era" to foster "Empowering Indian Youth for Global Leadership in Science & Innovation for Viksit Bharat (Developed India)".

The event was inaugurated with prayer at 10:30 am and graced by the chief guest Dr.Akbar Khan, Principal and Guest speaker Dr.S.Yusub. The chief guest Dr. Akbar Khan addressed the gathering with an inspiring message. He emphasized the crucial role of engineers in shaping the modern world, highlighting how their innovations and problem-solving skills contribute to societal growth and national development. He emphasized that the quantum computing is a revolutionary technology utilizing quantum mechanics-specifically superposition and entanglement-to perform computations far beyond the capabilities of classical computers. It covers the shift from binary bits to qubits, key applications in cryptography and drug discovery, and challenges like noise and error correction

The guest speaker Dr.S.Yusub highlighted the life, achievements, and contributions of Sir Dr.C.V.Raman. In his insightful talk, he shed light on the challenges and opportunities awaiting engineers in today's rapidly changing world, urging students to think beyond the confines of textbooks and to apply their knowledge in solving real-world problems. His inspiring words left a lasting impression on the audience.

He highlighted that quantum computing is poised to solve problems intractable for classical systems with significant research directed toward overcoming current hardware limitations, moving beyond Moore's Law. Though major technical, physical, and engineering challenges remain, the rapid advancement in hardware and algorithms suggests a significant impact on future technology

Seminar Overview:

Introduction to Quantum Computing: Unlike classical computers using binary bits (or), quantum computers use quantum bits (qubits). Qubits can exist in multiple states simultaneously, a phenomenon known as superposition, enabling them to process vast amounts of data at once.

Key Principles/ Fundamental Concepts:

Qubits: Unlike bits, quantum bits (qubits) can represent 0, 1, or both simultaneously

Superposition: Qubits exist in a state of 0, 1, or both simultaneously.

Entanglement: Qubits become interconnected, where the state of one instantly influences another, regardless of distance, boosting computing power.

Quantum Interference: Used to manipulate qubit states to cancel incorrect answers and amplify correct ones.

Cryptography: Breaking conventional encryption methods (e.g., RSA).

Optimization: Solving complex, multi-variable problems, such as logistics, which are difficult for classical systems.

Algorithms & Applications

Drug Discovery/Simulation: Modeling molecular structures at an atomic level.

Conclusion:

The seminar highlighted that quantum computing is poised to solve problems intractable for classical systems, moving beyond Moore's Law. Though major technical, physical, and engineering challenges remain, the rapid advancement in hardware and algorithms suggests a significant impact on future education and technology.

The after session commenced with a seminar competition among the technical students through PPT and Video Presentation, it was conducted by the event convener Mr. Vijaya Kumar, physics faculty. All registered students participated actively and presented their PPT on “Quantum Computing in current Era”. The chief guest Dr. Akbar Khan, Principal and BS&H, CSE department's HODs acted as judges. Based on the judge's remarks the prizes and certificates were awarded to the winner (I.II.III).

The celebrations concluded on a memorable note, leaving the students inspired and motivated. The event served as a reminder that engineers are the architects of progress, carrying the responsibility of innovation and societal transformation. Finally, the event ended with refreshments by 3:30 pm with a heartfelt vote of thanks to each one in making this event very successfully in a befitting manner.
